

Press Release
January 31, 2008

(Kewanee, Illinois) -- Flex Court Athletics build a new Basketball Court for Little People Big World.

Flex Court Athletics, leading manufacturer of modular sports surfaces, installs a new FLEX COURT® Basketball and Multi-Game Court System for the Roloff Family, alias Little People Big World, in Hill, Oregon.

“An Orthopedic Outdoor Sports Surface by FLEX COURT ATHLETICS is exactly what the doctor ordered for our family, says the mother; Amy Roloff.

Representatives from Flex Court International were at site to support the entire installation.

Chris Colomer, VP Sales of Flex Court states; “The entire Roloff Family are just fantastic people with an enormous enthusiasm for life. Their skill levels in Sports are amazing. It is nice to have someone appreciate our surface so much.”

The FLEX COURT® Outdoor Sports Surface is designed for increased stress relief for ankles, legs, joints and backs. The surface is supported by American Medical Associations (AMA) and Orthopedic Surgeons, and rated as one of the healthiest outdoor sports surfaces in the world.

Flex Court Athletics and its World Wide Franchise Dealers and Reps offer both Indoor and Outdoor Court Systems with full line of Court Accessories including Hoops, Net Systems, Lighting and much more. Installation Support is offered through complete turnkey solutions or on-site Installation Supervision options.

The whole FLEX COURT installation experience will be in a Little People Big World TV episode on the TLC channel the evening of March 10, 2008.

